The truth

The clock marked 3 am of the day October 23rd of 2004. At that moment, Steven woke up screaming, and Tommy arrived to his room. "What happened Steven?" asked Tommy, "I dreamt that the bogeyman was coming for me, again. Dad what does he want from me, he got John, a year ago, and now he wants me, dad, don't hide me anything, don't try to fool me", said Steven. Tommy didn't know what to tell him, he just breath, and then he began talking, "Steven, I have something to tell you, he is your uncle", Steven asked "Does that mean IÂ'm not your real son? What happened with my real mom?" Tommy, knowing that he couldn't hide any more the truth, he began to talk "She loved you very much, the night you were born, she was protecting you from the bogeyman, and he got her, he sacrificed herself for you, and thanks to that, you are here, and I promise you her sacrifice wonÂ't be in vain. The day after he got her I found you, and I promised that I would protect you from Michael, the bogeyman, and when I promise something,

I comply it".

Steven remained in silence, and he began to cry, "Do you love me dad?
I feel you don't love me as you love Lucy, or Danny. Is because of not being your real son, or being related to the bogeyman, that you love me less than them?" "No Steven, you may not be our true son, but that does not make us love you less than them, we love the three the same", said Tommy, wiping the boyÂ's tears and clothing him with his blankets. "Good night, my boy", said Tommy hugging Steven, "Good night dad", replied Steven, also hugging his father and then Tommy left the room, and Steven fell asleep. As he was sleeping, JamieÂ's spirit was sitting in his bed, and told him to the ear, "I promise the bogeyman wonÂ't get you, from where I am, I will protect you", and watched with a smile how he slept.
